

Sylvia Cranmer

I've been a bike commuter since I was 12-ish. I've always used my bike to get around – cheaper, easier, and more fun than driving a car.

As a bicycle advocate, I have been involved in local cycling issues for the past 20 years. I worked for the City of Fort Collins for 13 years promoting all modes of alternative transportation for SmartTrips, and love to lead by example. In addition to being on the Campus Bicycle Advisory Committee, I am on the board of Bike Fort Collins (a local non-profit bicycle advocacy group), and chair of the city's Bicycle Advisory Committee. I have also been a contractor for projects related to bikes and peds – including co-directing the 2012/13 Ram Bicycle Classic, and working with the City of Boulder on a cross-walk safety campaign – “Heads Up.”

Fun Fact: While commuting by bike to a well-baby check (5 ½ months pregnant with my now 16-year old daughter) I was hit by a car (right hook) and broke my collar bone. And the baby? The doc listened through his stethoscope and said, “Takes a licking and keeps on ticking!” True story.
